Newsletter of the Austro-American Association of Boston

---

October 10, 2010

Dear Members and Friends,

There has been a change in our November program.

The originally scheduled event
on Saturday, November 13, 2010

Austrian Musical Delights with Thea Lobo, soprano will be rescheduled for the spring. Further information on the date will be forthcoming.

We are invited to be part of the opening event for the Salzburg Institute of Gordon College
on Saturday, November 13, 2010, at 3:00 pm

The Salzburg Institute of Gordon College connects two of the most culturally rich cities on both sides of the Atlantic: Salzburg and Boston. The Institute organizes annual academic symposia at Gordon College and in Salzburg. Between July and August, the Institute's Summer School is held in the city of Salzburg. From September to May, the institute hosts events at Gordon College on the North Shore of Boston and at the historic Park Street Church in downtown Boston.

Prof. Gregor Thuswaldner, Dept. Chair and Associate Professor of German and Linguistics, heads the "Salzburg Institute at Gordon College". A member of the Austro-American Association, he has invited all Austrians in the Boston area to join the opening of this special occasion.

This event is also sponsored by the Austrian Cultural Forum in New York and Mag. Andreas Stadler, who is the director, will make an address. The great pianist, Stan Ford (Prof. at the University Mozarteum), will give a piano recital. Obviously, this is a major event, in an acoustically superb hall designed by the same architect who did the Seiji Ozawa hall in Tanglewood.

Gordon College is located at 255 Grapevine Road, Wenham, MA 01984. Take Route 128 North toward Gloucester, passing through Preabody, Danvers, and Beverly, take Exit 17, Grapevine Road, turn left at end of ramp, go 0.6 mile to main entrance. Tel 978-927-2300, e-mail: info@gordon.edu.

No Admission Fee - Buffet will be served
